Sbarter player journeys

Assumes players already have linked Sbarter accounts.

A 1v1 challenge and a 16-player tournament for Game players. Players search, accept, create and join only in the Sbarter app. Game links into the app and shows a few messages from Sbarter. Each step sits in a lane so you can see where the player is: in the Sbarter app, in the game, or waiting while Sbarter works in the background.

DESIGN PRINCIPLES

- The publisher never rebuilds what Sbarter already does. Game only adds links into the Sbarter app (the browse tab filtered to the Game, or a specific tournament or challenge) and shows messages Sbarter sends. Searching, accepting, brackets, results, disputes and payouts all live in Sbarter.
- Keep switching between the Sbarter app and the game to a minimum. One tap on "Start match" or "Go to match" takes a player straight into their match.

Player acts in the Sbarter app · Sbarter or publisher does it (no player action) · Player is in the game · Decision · Side outcome

1v1 challenge

Player A creates an open or private challenge in the Sbarter app. Player B finds it by browsing the Sbarter app directly, from a Game menu link or from an in-game invite message, and accepts in the app. Both players then get a Start match notification, in the Game and in the app, that takes them straight into the match.

AGREED

- Challenges can only be searched for, created and accepted in the Sbarter app. Players can browse there directly, or use a Game menu link that opens the browse tab pre-filtered to Game 1v1s and tournaments.
- A private invite shows as a message in the Game, linking to the challenge card in the app. The opponent accepts in the app.
- On an open challenge, Player A confirms or rejects Player B. A rejected challenge goes back on the browse tab.
- Once the match is locked, both players get a Start match notification in the Game and in the app. The first to tap goes into the Game and waits; the second goes straight into that match.
- No server result: the Publisher's login data decides. Only one player logged in: the absent player forfeits. Neither logged in: void and full refund. There is no manual reporting for 1v1s.
- First-time players arriving from the Game menu link or a first private invite see a guide and the Publisher endorsement page once, with the option not to see it again.
- The Starter fee and the publisher's share come out of the winner's payout.

NEEDS PUBLISHER

- Step 5b: what development is needed to show a private invite message in the Game.
- Step 21: whether the Publisher can share which players were logged in during the match window.
- Step 10a: whether the "challenge accepted, opponent waiting" message can include a direct link to the 1v1 challenge.
- Step 15a: whether the in-game Start match button can go straight to the match.
- Steps 16–18: that Game can show a waiting-for-opponent screen and put the second player into the same match.

AGREED

- 16 players, single elimination, 4 rounds.
- Tournaments are found and joined only in the Sbarter app. Players can browse there directly, or use a Game link that opens the browse tab (pre-filtered) or a specific tournament.
- Players can withdraw with a full refund until 15 minutes before the start. After that, no withdrawals and the fee is kept.
- Prize pool: 1st 55%, 2nd 25%, each losing semi-finalist 10%. Sbarter's fee and the publisher's share come out of payouts.
- Each round has a maximum contest completion window. The next round can start early once every match has a clear winner.
- No server result: only one player logged in, the absent player forfeits; neither logged in, void. Only if both were logged in is a manual result request sent, in the Game and in the app. Results are submitted only in the app.

GETTING INTO EACH MATCH

- Once the bracket is drawn, Sbarter knows both opponents' Sbarter and Game accounts, so it creates each match with the publisher. Players never set up a match by hand.
- Each round, players get a round ready message in the Game with a Go to match button (the Publisher to confirm), and the same button in the Sbarter app. Either opens the Game straight into the match.
- When a player advances, the in-game message and a push notification bring them back to those buttons for the next round.

When no match result is found

If no game-server result arrives in the contest completion window, Sbarter checks with the Publisher which players were logged in to the Game during that window.

Manual result rules (tournaments only)

Sent only when the Publisher shows both players were logged in but no result was found. Both players are notified in the Game and in the Sbarter app; the in-game message links to the app. Results can only be submitted in the Sbarter app, within 3 minutes.

What void means. 1v1: both stakes refunded, no penalty. Tournament: both players are out and their next-round opponent gets a bye. Void final: the 1st and 2nd prizes (80% of the pool) are split equally, 40% to each finalist.
